

Food For Thought

Kangarillapig says, you ought to get reading
Your brain is an organ that really needs feeding.
So fill it with knowledge and go grab a book
Go to the library and just take a look.

It is so important that you can read well
You don't need to worry; your brain will not swell.
It won't overload and blow up in your head
So read a nice book before you go to bed.

You might want to read a Kangarillapig book at night
When you're tucked up in bed before you turn off the light.
If you don't read his books, you'll be missing out
On this funny old creature with the pink squidgy snout.

There are so many books; you can learn such a lot
For example, the story of the Gunpowder Plot.
The topics they cover are so very vast
So make your lazy brain a thing of the past.

Now if you find reading a little bit tricky
There's no need to worry; it won't always be sticky.
Practice makes perfect, so read every day
And those worries you have will soon go away.

Once you become engrossed in a book
You won't give your computer game a second look.
There are so many adventures on which you can go
And at the same time your knowledge will grow.

Kangarillapig says that reading is great
Go pick up a book; it's never too late.
Be a Kangarillakid and get into reading
And remember your brain needs regular feeding!

Written by Rosie Button

